4. Sub-Processing

4.1. Mechanism for the appointment of Sub-processors. IDC shall engage another processor (i.e., a sub-processor) only in accordance with this DPA. - 4.3. Objection to Changes. The Client shall be entitled to object in writing to the proposed change within fifteen (15) days of receipt of the notification provided in accordance with clause 4.2. If IDC receives no objection from the Client within such period, it shall be deemed authorized to proceed with the change.
- 4.4. Responsibility for Sub-processors. IDC shall, where it engages any sub-processor in accordance with this clause 4: (a) carry out appropriate due diligence on the sub-processor prior to engaging it to verify that it is capable of complying with the data protection obligations under this DPA, to the extent applicable to the services it is to perform; (b) only use a sub-processor that has provided sufficient guarantees to implement appropriate technical and organizational measures; (c) impose on the sub-processor, through a legally binding contract between IDC and sub-processor, data protection obligations equivalent in substance to those set out in this DPA and provide at least the same level of protection as provided for by this DPA; and (d) implement legally required transfer mechanisms (such as SCCs where applicable) for the transfers of Personal Data outside of the EU/EEA. IDC represents and warrants that it has performed the foregoing (a) – (d) with respect to the sub-processors already engaged by IDC as of the effective date of the Agreement.
- 4.5. Objection resolution. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Client objects to the engagement of another sub-processor in accordance with clause 4.3, the Parties will come together in good faith to discuss an appropriate solution. If the Parties are unable to resolve the objection, IDC may, where commercially reasonable, modify the applicable Services to avoid Processing Personal Data through the objected-to sub-processor. If IDC is unable to make such modification, Client may terminate only the affected SOW for the applicable Services that cannot be provided without the objected-to sub-processor, unless the Parties agree otherwise.

- 5.3. Entire Agreement. This DPA supplements the Agreement and unless otherwise stipulated herein, the provisions of the Agreement shall apply, including any exclusions and limitation of warranties and liabilities provided therein. Provisions in this DPA shall have precedence over any provisions of the Agreement relating to the processing of Personal Data by IDC as a Processor. This DPA supersedes all existing arrangements of the Parties regarding the processing of Personal Data by IDC as a Processor in furtherance of the Services.
